

Hello Fellow PVSers

Two years have really flown by since you asked me to be the President of our great club! I've had fun and we've done a lot of activities over the past two years that have brought smiles to our faces. We supercharged PVS with fabulous new friends from Capital Golden Skiers! We skied in Europe, out West, and locally; we swam and ate steak, listened to excellent classical music, sailed around Annapolis, visited classical European cities, tasted wonderful wines, played a little golf, learned to make Chinese dumplings, rode the Ferris wheel and much, much more. It was a great two years and I thank all of the members of PVS and the officers for making it so much fun.

Would you like to make a contribution to PVS that involves some part-time bookkeeping work? Do you enjoy balancing your own checking account? Dick Laeser, our esteemed Treasurer for the past seven years, is ready to turn over the baton. We give a hearty thank you to Dick for all the monthly reports and for guiding our bank accounts all this time.

If you would be interested in handling this position for PVS, please get in touch with me at 703 595 8375 or nancymckin@gmail.com. And Dick will be able to answer any questions you may have about the position. Briefly, the duties require a methodical person who has used Excel, who can collect and dispense checks for PVS, and who reports monthly by email to the Executive Committee on the status of our accounts. Attendance at all ExCom meetings is not necessary and many meetings are telephonic. (Ski trip funds are NOT run through the PVS Treasury.) This is a great opportunity to give back to the Club!

See you at the Annual Meeting on April 21 in Reston!

SKI TALK APRIL 2015

It has been another successful ski season. If you plan your winter well, you may be able to miss the local snowstorms, as we did, while you enjoy skiing in wonderful places. In January, we had a week of beautiful blue skies and sun at Snowmass and we just returned from two weeks in Slovenia and Austria, with sun all but one day. The temperatures were moderate and the snow was great. While I look forward to spring, I will miss the mountains and the snow.

As soon as we finish one ski season, we must prepare for the next. It takes months of planning to get trips organized. Our ski trip leaders begin the work with the proposal. I am happy to report that two trips are on the table for 2016: Snowmass for January and the BRSC Western Carnival to Snowbird for early February. Marianne Soponis led the trip to Snowmass this year to rave reviews and has agreed to lead the trip for 2016. This trip will be scheduled mid-January. Eloise and Mike Strand have agreed to lead the BRSC Winter Carnival to Snowbird in early February. If you have a trip you are interested in leading, please send proposals, questions or recommendations to me. We are hoping to have our ski schedule for next year set by late May.

One way to get ideas for trips is to attend the Ski Travel Show scheduled for Friday evening, May 1, at the Marriott Hotel, 8020 Leesburg Pike, Tysons Corner. Check it out on the website: www.prwtravelshows.com/DC.htm. It starts at 6:30PM and ends at 9:30PM. Vendors from most of the major resorts attend with brochures, pins, maps and lots of information. This is an opportunity to talk to tour operators and resort personnel. It is a fun evening with a cash bar and hors d'oeuvres served all evening. If you stick around to the end, you may even win a ski trip or at least a cap or a t-shirt. Let me know if you want to attend and I will register you.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

PVS LOCAL SKIING (2014-2015) -- John H. Smith

Most every week since December, there have been three to six of us who met up for a day of skiing at either Liberty Mountain or Whitetail Resort. Some of the people were doing local skiing to warm up for going on PVS week-long trips. Other were just getting back into skiing after being away from skiing for awhile, and easy local skiing proved to be a way to gently test their skill.

)er

Resort & Conference Center

We got a particularly good start in January, once it turned cold enough to make snow regularly. Both ski areas were very diligent in making snow when ever possible; so. the base built up to about four feet by early January (sometimes there was more base locally than there was out West). We carefully selected the day(s) of the week to go skiing so that we almost always had good groomed snow, little or no wind, lots of sunshine, and temperatures in the 20s.

Most of us no longer look forward to skiing in blizzards and in freezing temperatures, and now only want to go out when it is beautiful and pleasant.

February was a more challenging month for local skiing. The snow conditions were good all month with plenty of base (more than four feet) and very good grooming at both ski areas. However, there was either stormy weather or far below normal temperatures a few days each week. Some weeks it was good at the mountains, but difficult to get there because of our regular sleet and freezing rain at home. Nevertheless, we were able to find at least one suitable day each week.

Although the snow cover was still good during the first two weeks of March, our frequent days of heavy rain and temperatures in the 50s or even 60s at the mountains brought an abrupt end to local skiing shortly after St. Patrick's Day.

Now we can rest up for a few months and look forward to next season. It's a good way to do a little gentle skiing in preparation for one of our major trips or just to get back to skiing if you have been away from skiing for a while.

PVS March 22, 2015 Meeting at the home of Maryann Rozzell

Ellie Thayer chaired the meeting and gave the Events and Programs Report in the absence of the under-the-weather, housebound McKinleys. Members were particularly encouraged to attend the April annual meeting when the club elects new officers and confirms active status upon ten The candidates who were applicant members. present were recognized. Members were reminded to "save the date," November 1, 2015, for the club's Rosemary, Ski Trip Committee Golden Jubilee. Chair, summarized the three successful 2015 ski trips with their variable weather conditions and spoke briefly about the 2016 Snowmass trip (Marianne Soponis, leader) and the PVS/BRSC Winter Carnival Snowbird trip (Strands, leaders).

Serge Triau gave a heartfelt thanks to all PVSers who sent him cards, emails, and get-well wishes and ended by noting that PVSers are a generous and caring lot.

The afternoon ended with brownies and cake and warm feelings.

If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. (Ancient proverb first recorded in 1840.) This is Maryann Rozzell's motto as she tried to host the PVS February meeting, which was cancelled due to snow, and succeeded in hosting the PVS March meeting. There were 30 attendees including the hostess and three applicant members, Barry Lake, Kathy Lake, and Tom Tycz. It was a lively crowd who were observed enjoying the wine, the appetizers, Rosemary Schwartzbard's photo show of the Austrian and Slovenian trip, and each other. The atmosphere reflected the hope that spring had finally sprung, and the previously housebound were determined to have PVS fun.

PVS/BRSC EUROFEST March 2015 SLOVENIA and AUSTRIA

SLOVENIA

Thirty-four participants of the 2015 BRSC Eurofest (including 13 PVSers) went on the pre-trip to Bled, Slovenia, which was led by Inge and Sam Lesjak. We were fortunate to have Inge and Sam who led many previous trips to Slovenia.

In Bled, we stayed at the Grand Hotel Toplice located alongside beautiful Lake Bled with spectacular views of the lake, Bled Castle, and surrounding mountains. The hotel was a 5-star sprawling old hotel: spacious, but well appointed with modern facilities. Full buffet breakfast and mini-menu dinners were included in our package.

The food and service were par excellence. A thermal swimming pool and saunas were available for relaxation and fun.

Roomies Margaret Wyckoff and Louann Eadie seemed to have the most interesting experiences. After dressing for the pool, they shockingly discovered they were wearing exactly the same style swimsuit (Costco). We are guessing their swimsuit sizes were somewhat different. Upon arrival at the pool, they discovered the water temperature was not warm enough...so off to the sauna. Oops...the sauna "dress" was au-natural...back to theroom. A subsequent "incident" involved a bathtub...but Margaret saved the day with her understanding of physics from two years of engineering school in years past.

On our first day trip, we were off to the capital city of Ljubljana. We went on a walking tour of the old town and visited the Ljubljana castle and the National Museum of Contemporary History. The tour was ably led by Tina, who does tours for Rick Steves.

The second day trip took us on a bus traveling adventure through winding mountain roads and passes to visit a well-organized and narrated WW I museum in Kobarid, Slovenia. Some of us could not figure out who the "good guys" and "bad guys" were back then.

The last day in Slovenia, we were free to explore the local sights. High on almost everyone's list was to explore Bled Castle high on a cliff above the lake. Some had the stamina and energy to walk up; others took a taxi. Either way, the trip was well worth it. There was time for walking around the lake and shopping, of course. We had a live band for dancing at our farewell dinner.

HINTERTUX

After a six-hour scenic ride from Slovenia through mountain tunnels and high mountain roads, our group reached our lovely hotel in Hintertux, the Thermal Badhotel Kirchler. Our hotel was only a few minutes ride from the Hintertux Glacier by the "blue" bus, which circled between a stop near the hotel and the Glacier. The rental shop, Nenner Sport, was right across the street from the hotel, with a larger branch near the entrance to the gondola at the base of the Hintertux Glacier. We were very pleased with the high quality of the rental equipment.

The first day, which was warm and sunny, PVS skiers tried out the slopes at the Glacier and were very pleased with the excellent snow conditions and the long groomed intermediate/advanced level runs. Those of us who had limited European skiing experience were amazed to discover that it took three long gondola rides to reach the top of the mountain, and that we were skiing way above the tree line. With the exception of one snowy day, where the visibility was very limited and the skiing extremely challenging, the snow conditions were quite good and the weather sunny and pleasant. The second day, a PVS group went with Herbert, a guide provided by the hotel, to the ski mountains on the other side of the hotel, and skied as far as the slopes above Mayrhofen. Hearing the report of this excellent adventure, another PVS group took a guided tour on the next day, and enjoyed the magnificent scenery, while covering a lot of territory keeping up with the rapid pace of our guide, Franz. This group was delighted to have the translation services of Marianne Hines, who engaged in a lively conversation with the guide. This group covered over twenty miles with the guide seeing the best of several connected ski areas, which are part of the Zillertal 3000. Those who skied the day after the snowy day reported a fabulous day skiing in powder conditions.

Our skiers learned to master the moving carpet found at the entrance to many of the chair lifts; most skiers were successful using the T bars, with the exception of Bob Jablon, who attempted to take this lift holding the bar in front. After his fall from the lift, it took two strong, young Austrian men to get him on his feet and back into his skis. Speaking of feet, Bob was perplexed when he went to pick up his shoes at the ski rental shop one day on finding two identical pair of shoes where he had left his single pair of shoes. Not knowing which pair belonged to him, Bob kept his ski boots on and returned the next day to pick up his shoes – there was only one pair left, which we hope belonged to Bob.

Our group enjoyed the large, spacious rooms, decorated in classic Austrian chalet style, and feasted on the excellent and plentiful food provided by the hotel. The first and last nights, the hotel provided a dinner buffet with a multitude of choices (for example, roast beef, spareribs, chicken, and other meat choices, fried mushroom balls, smoked salmon, mussels, spinach crepes, and more). On the second night, we were served an 11-course meal; all meals the other nights had five courses. The first "course" consisted of a large salad bar, various cheeses and meats and bread. This course was followed by a choice of soup or a fruit drink, then by a fish or pasta dish (e.g., tuna carpaccio or smoked salmon). There was a choice of soup of a fluit affin salmon). There was a choice of the main course each night (such as wiener schnitzel, thick slices of rare veal, chicken with curry sauce, vegetarian lasagne), and the meal was completed with a wonderful dessert (and, on buffet night, a huge choice of pastries and excellent ice cream). The breakfast buffets were also plentiful and varied, with a large variety of bread and rolls, cheeses, meats, omelets and other breakfast food. It is not surprising that most of us had trouble fitting into our ski pants by the end of the week.

For those in our group who did not ski, or wished to take time off from skiing, there were a number of day trips, namely trips to Munich, Innsbruck, and Salzburg. The guide for these trips was Ilsa, who was very informative and easy to follow. A number of people spent a day in Mayrhofen, which was accessible from the hotel by local buses. Some members of the group enjoyed a swim in the warm, heated, indoor swimming pool; some daring individuals tried out the sauna, following the European tradition of shedding all attire.

Another unique event was the hour-long tour of the rather aromatic stables, housing 70 cows, right near the hotel. Our group viewed the automatic milking machines, enjoyed interacting with the cows and a one-day old baby calf, learned about the difference between Austrian and German hay, saw the cheese making facilities, and tried fresh, unpasteurized milk.

Some members of our group were introduced to the pleasure of Jagertee, a potent concoction consisting of rum, Austrian liquor, and spices, and a small amount of tea. Gluwein (a hot, mulled wine) was also an excellent après-ski drink.

This portion submitted by Cara Jablon.

VIENNA

After a wonderful ski week in Hintertux, most of the group loaded their gear on the bus for the long ride to Vienna; stables. Some members of the group enjoyed seeing Klimt's "The Kiss" at the Belvedere Museum and viewing the old masters at the Kunsthistoriches Museum. Others enjoyed simply walking around this beautiful city with its large, imposing, ornate buildings, and sampling the fare of its many cafes and restaurants. Café respites and gelato were a major event each day. We were all amazed at the size of the portions of wiener schnitzel (but ate it all), and could not get enough Sacher tortes and apple strudels. Many spent some quality time in the Swarovski stores in central Vienna getting treasures for themselves and loved ones! Some favorite eating spots were the Central Café and Plachutta where the famous Vienna boiled beef was served in copper pots and the staff gave instructions on the proper way to eat this feast.

Our thanks to Inge and Sam Lesjak for leading such an excellent trip.

several members of our group headed to other European destinations. We were delighted by the beautiful Parkhotel Schonbrunn, conveniently located near a subway stop and close to the Schonbrunn Palace, and enjoyed the wonderful breakfast buffet with its excellent "Vienna" rolls. In Vienna, many members of our group participated in the tour the first full day in the city. With the incredible variety of attractions offered by Vienna, members of the group went their separate ways to pursue their particular interests. Cara and Bob Jablon were fortunate to have procured tickets to La Traviata; Louann Eadie, Peter Russell, Margaret Wyckoff, and others filled their schedules with a multitude of concerts, including Mozart's Requiem at St. Stephen's Cathedral. They were also able to see the Lipizzaner Horse Show and

THE KNEE by Ray McKinley RaysKnee@gmail.com

Do you know what time it is? Spring training is over and it's baseball time. Jo Washington Mationals!

Yup, sadly ski season is over. As far as the Knee knows our latest skier was Bob McNeill. He skied at the end of March at Mt Sunapee and Gunstock. And Bob plans to ski in Knee Hampshire through at least mid-April if conditions permit.

Bob Knopes planned to attend his last monthly meeting while an ExComer. (His term is ending.) But he had a conflict and missed the event. Bob and Karen had previously purchased tickets to the Washington Opera's performance of la Traviata. Bob said the opera was fully staged and in kneeoclassical style. Ellie Thayer recalled that the last time she saw the opera was five or six years ago on the jumbotron screen in center field at the Nationals Park.

A chairlift malfunction that injured seven skiers at Maine's Sugarloaf ski area last week was caused by a broken drive shaft in a gearbox that allowed the lift to move in reverse and by a brake system that failed to stop the lift because of a design flaw. The lift, carrying more than 200 skiers, was stopped by an emergency brake that engaged automatically. The ski industry says that riding a chairlift is safer than riding an elevator, and there has not been a death due to mechanical malfunction since 1993.

As PVS ages, fewer of us are skiing. The Knee offers this suggestion to increase attendance on our ski trips. We should run "Ski and Bingo Trips." This would require a slight change from our normal procedures. But it's important for us to remember that change is inevitable, except from a vending machine.

I'm still trying to find Gertrude Stein's recipe for Spanish rice arroz is arroz is arroz.

According to Marvin Hass, perhaps the biggest news lately in North American skiing has been the announcement in 2014 that seven ski resorts perched high above Salt Lake City hope to join hands to create the largest megaresort in North America. OneWasatch, as it's being billed, would be a colossus, with one ski pass linking more than 100 lifts across Utah's Wasatch Mountains, more than double the acreage of Whistler-Blackcomb in Canada, currently the continent's largest ski resort. Its backers say OneWasatch would offer an experience akin to Europe's linked valley-to-valley ski systems like Arlberg in Austria or Trois Vallées in France.

The idea is ambitious. It's sexy. It's also hugely controversial. Opponents say linking the resorts isn't right for the mountains, or for the people who play in them. No final decision has been made on linking the ski resorts.

Skiing with a bunch of other PVSers, Kerry Hines skied off the side of the trail into a pile of loose snow. He did a face plant that resulted in a bloody nose. Nothing Kerry could do was able to stem the bleeding. Finally one woman remembered that she had a tampon with her. Kerry stuck the tampon up his nostril and it worked. The bleeding stopped.

Vail Resorts and the U.S. Forest Service (USFS) have confirmed that a number of smoke shacks for marijuana use at Vail, Beaver Creek, Breckenridge and Keystone resorts have been destroyed recently. The resorts are located on U.S. Forest Service land, where possession and consumption of marijuana is illegal.

Margaret Wyckoff and Louann Eadie were roommates on Inge Lesjak's trip to Austria. They decided to visit the spa one afternoon. When they came out of the locker room they discovered they both had identical bathing suits!

Later on the trip, Louann had an encounter with an antique, very narrow bathtub. She and her roomie kneerly created an international incident. What happened? I'm sorry, that information is on a "kneed to know" basis only. Kneedless to say, all's well that ends well.

Residents of the Swiss resort of St. Moritz woke up recently by the sound of sirens wailing. Opening their shutters, they saw that a submarine had broken through the ice of the landlocked frozen Lake St. Moritz -- at well over one mile above sea level. Closer inspection, however, revealed that all was not as it seemed. The submarine was actually an art installation-cumpop up bar. The submarine bar, measures 131 feet in length and is 30 feet high Visitors have been able to enjoy the hospitality of the submarine bar while sitting on padded torpedo segments while recordings of turbine generators and a real sub breaking through ice are played in the background.
