All Trips Party Review July 12, 2008

On a typically warm Washington-area July Saturday, with temperatures approaching the 90s, a typically keen group of PVSers with thoughts turned to snowy slopes past and to come gathered at the charming woodside Reston home of Sally Finan and George Welti to learn more about the three snowy PVS trips slated for 2009--and a sail out from Tahiti.

We were greeted by indefatigable organizer Dottie Villers--indefatigable despite a damaged left-foot ligament, possibly due to too much tennis. As usual at PVS events, there was a luscious spread of edibles, from appetizers to barbecue and desserts, plus cool drinks. Most was consumed indoors, given the warmth of the late afternoon. Then in Sally and George's cool lower story, next to their curvaceous indoor pool (which none of us dipped into), we heard about the trips.

Carolyn DeVilbiss touted the well-known delights of Snowmass, Colorado, based in our beloved slopeside Mountain Chalet. The upcoming January trip she's leading, aided by spouse Dave, is the fourth she's organized. She warned that this really may be the last time we can count on lodging at Mountain Chalet; a developer lurks in the wings. Rosemary Schwartzbard outlined the highlights of the Elderhostel February trip to Park City, Utah, which she's handling from the PVS end, along with Ellie Thayer. Just days before our gathering, she'd learned that that trip was already almost full. Joe Jevcak, subbing for partner Liz Warren-Boulton who was off for a month in her native Australia. cited the lure of spring skiing in March in Taos, New Mexico. The trip includes a stopover en route in Santa Fe and sidetrips to Taos town from the ski slopes. Shifting to the other side of the coin—and planet--, Reg Heitchue cited the lures of sailing around Tahiti and the French Polynesian Islands aboard a "mega-yacht"--the trip he's leading in May/June.

Enticing prospects all!

To end the evening, hostess Sally led a dozen or so of us on a brisk hike along some well-marked trails of the woods by her and George's home, while George and helpers cleaned up.

Many thanks to the two of them--and Dottie. (Submitted by Jean van der Tak)

RODGERS AND HAMMERSTEIN AT THE MOVIES WOLF TRAP August 1, 2008

On a balmy summer evening on the first day of August with clear skies, low humidity and a gentle breeze, twenty-three PVSers had a memorable time at Wolf Trap. First there was the picnic with a fantastic array of appetizers, salads and desserts. Red and white wines were abundant. Once again we proved that PVS'ers match the best cooks in the area. We even got to celebrate applicant member Angie Hale's birthday with chocolate cake and candles. Not only did Dottie Villers made all the arrangements for our group but she also sent out recipes, arrived early, arranged the tables in Wolf Trip's picnic area and staked out a primo location for our picnic. Kudos to Dottie!!

After being totally sated, we found our excellent mid-orchestra seats and then were carried away through music and images. The screen was situated above the National Symphony Orchestra. The actors on the screen did the singing but, through the magic of spectral separation, the orchestral accompaniment was live, performed by the musicians on stage. Magic! It started with Oklahoma, which was the beginning of musical theater as we know it. We watched Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones sing "Oh What a Beautiful Morning", "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top", and "Oklahoma". Then the singing and dancing in Carousel brought back memories to Dave Calloway who watched it being filmed in Maine in 1956. The images of South Pacific carried us away. When we heard "Some Enchanted Evening" we could all identify. Who doesn't remember Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr in The King and I. Watching them perform "Shall We Dance" or "March of the Siamese Children" was magical. For State Fair they showed both the 40s version with Jeanne Crain and Dick Haymes and the 60s with Ann-Margret and Pat Boone. Interesting contrast. My favorite was the musical buildup accompanying the opening of The Sound of Music when we were taken above the Austrian hills and valleys and snow-capped mountains until Julie Andrews appears at a distance singing her famous opening about the hills being alive.

Emil de Cou was brilliant in his conducting and witty in his comments and discussion about the movies. The Producer, John Goberman, is the same person who brings us the fabulous simulcasts from Lincoln Center.

Thank you Dottie for organizing this fantastic event. (Submitted by Rosemary Schwartzbard)

ANNAPOLIS BAY PICNIC at Heitchue's Saturday August 23, 2008

On a mild summer day in late August about 30 PVSers headed out to the Heitchue weekend retreat in the Bay Ridge section of Annapolis overlooking Chesapeake Bay. One couldn't ask for more with good weather, a scenic location, with appetizers, salads, and desserts supplied by participants, and outdoor grilled shish kebobs by those host. The convivial atmosphere enabled those present to review their past experiences on and off the slopes. Participants owe loads of appreciation to the host, Reg Heitchue and Mary Beale who dealt with reservations.

DAVID G. ABRAHAM, R.I.P.

Remarks by Reg Heitchue at Memorial Service for David Abraham

David was my ski buddy, my best ski buddy. I first knew David as a fellow skier and with the passage of time came to know him as a friend, a very dear friend. David truly excelled at skiing and mastered the challenges of many mountains with grace and skill. Only in recent years did he shy away from the experts-only, most challenging, double black diamond ski runs. He was an astonishingly capable skier for his age...one in a million, maybe one in ten million.

I always thought of David as a role model for younger generations...if he could ski with such energy, enthusiasm, and passion at the age of 50, 60, 70, even 80, well maybe others could as well. Most skiers by the time they reach the age of 50, let alone their 60's, 70's, and 80's, have put the skis in the basement for good, never to see the slopes of a mountain again. Not David. In his seventies. David was doing things like skiing "offpiste" in Val-d'Isere, France. Sometime later he was in a place called the Bugaboos, a remote area in the Canadian wilderness where you go helicopter skiing. Then not long ago, David was off to Portillo, Chile for a week of skiing during our summer. David couldn't wait until our winter to go skiing, so he led a trip to the Southern Hemisphere. As recently as this January--yes, 2008--David was to be found skiing at Aspen.

In preparation for this memorial service, we gathered pictures of David on the slopes. You can see them posted here this evening. We really wanted one of him on the slopes, actually skiing. So, people searched their files for a picture of David skiing. We never found one and I'm sure the reason is that he skied so well and so fast that no one could ever catch him long enough to take a picture.

David and I spent a lot of time together riding the lifts. On those many long rides we talked about the many subjects... world affairs, politics, economics, finance, and business. These are the things that interested David, and with which he was extraordinarily conversant. With all that time together I really got to know David, and the man I came to know was a man of great integrity and high moral character, a generous man, a caring man. As his lovely wife, Rachel, can attest, David was exceedingly generous with his time, his money and his ideas. He shared these without hesitation. David cared for other people more than he cared for himself. He did not always come across as such, but he truly cared for and went out of his way to help other people.

David was a man who believed in commitments. You made a commitment and you kept that commitment. When David said he would meet you at the lift at 9, you could be absolutely certain that he would be there at 9, and most likely before...and lord help you if you weren't on time!

David loved PVS. More important, he loved the people of PVS. Rachel, his lovely wife, tells me that after every PVS event, David always remarked how the people of PVS were absolutely the best. David was much honored to serve as PVS president which he did with great skill and leadership ability. David left that position a little over a year ago. The following was his farewell as he left the position of President of PVS:

"This is my swan song. It's been an often long but always rewarding five years since I was appointed the club's vice president, then elected as Vice President and President, respectively. We've had some stormy times, and we've accomplished what was to be done in amicable and highly cooperative environs".

He closed his farewell message by saying: "To all of them, and the many whom I haven't mentioned by name, my sincerest thanks, along with my best wishes for the continued success of our upcoming leadership in moving us forward in an ever-evolving ski-loving bunch of great people. May great snow conditions, unblemished camaraderie and goodwill be with us all for many years to come. David"

So it is to David that I say: David, it was truly an honor and a privilege to have been your ski buddy and your dear friend.

DAVID G. ABRAHAM, R.I.P.

Remembering David Abraham

I first met David Abraham at a PVS meeting when someone pointed him out to me as someone that I should talk to since I liked to ski moguls. This simple introduction led to a deep friendship as we got to know each other. David was the most remarkable and interesting person that I have ever met and I would like to share some of my recollections about him.

David's consideration for others was central to the principals that guided his life. He demonstrated this consideration on what was supposed to be our first ski trip together. David had to cancel this trip but he took care to provide an introduction to Herb Lichtenstein so that I would have someone to ski with. He always expressed admiration whenever I did anything that showed consideration to others.

David told many interesting stories of his experiences in life so that riding up the chair lift with David was as much fun as skiing down the mountain with him. I'll outline a few highlights in the following paragraphs.

David had a long military career that started as a private in the British army during World War II and ended when he retired as Colonel in the Israeli Reserves. The British took advantage of his ear for languages and put him to work as an intelligence officer in Italy. David saw an opportunity to get an engineering education while in the army by applying for admission to the Polytechnic Institute of Milan (Politecnico di Milano). There was no precedent for this application and David would have to take a difficult course of study in a language that he hardly knew, but David was a brave person with the courage to make difficult things happen.

You may not think of David Abraham when you see the Statue of Liberty, but one of David's early projects was a consultation contract with the US Park Service. The access to the statue and the internal elevators were installed as a result of David's recommendations. This was just one of a wide variety of projects that formed David's career.

This January David seemed to be complaining about all of the boards committees that he needed to serve upon his return from Snowmass. I suggested to him that he might want to retire. David was offended. A busy life with service to others was David's only way of living.

In the end there is one special thing that is especially important to me. I will always remember that David was a skier.

Message from Rachel Abraham to members of PVS

Rachel thanks PVSers for their thoughtful and very touching sympathy cards.

And for having attended David's Memorial Service.

Their sympathy cards will remain very special to me.

One PVSer wrote the following:

He will be remembered As a great individual and a wonderful skier. His spirit will be with us, PVS skiers, With every turn we make.

THE KNEE by Ray McKinley

Gosharooty folks it's been two months. And I've got lots to bring you up-to-date on. Do you recall the early TV show that used the term gosharooty? It also had Flubbadub. Yup, it was Howdy Dowdy. And it was a long time ago—I believe it was 1996! Actually it was over half a century ago, so long ago that TV was only called V. The Tele part came later.

It's been a hot and humid summer. What a pleasant change when the first of the big fall, fatwith-new-equipment-ads ski magazines arrived. Now I don't kneed any new equipment (or at least ski equipment), and Nancy and the Knee have our winter's trip planned. But what sheer joy it is looking at the ads for new "stuff" and new places to ski. It's time to think of the upcoming joys of skiing. The mere thought provides instant air conditioning-and time to finalize the upcoming season's skiing. One early September question, if it is called "Labor Day," how come there is no one working?

Marilyn and Dick Clark are now back in their Williamsburg home. They spent the last 6 weeks at their NY State lake home. Marilyn sent me some "really bad puns." No comment!

- >A chicken crossing the road is poultry in motion.
- >If you don't pay your exorcist, you'll be repossessed.
- >A boiled egg in the morning is hard to beat.
- >A midget fortune-teller who escapes from prison is a small medium at large.
- >Those who get too big for their britches will be exposed in the end.
- >Bakers trade bread recipes on a knead-to-know basis.
- >Santa's helpers are subordinate clauses.

Ouch! Rosemary Schwartzbard is a triathelete. While bicycling down the flat George Washington Parkway she fell off her bike. It warranted an ambulance trip to the emergency room. The result was a sore shoulder and a bruised rib. Rosemary is fine. Indeed, she and Dick are now on a two week auto trip to Maine.

PVS' August ExCom, at the request of Pres Mike Strand, was a conference call meeting. It's now been one year since PVS held its first ever Conference Call ExCom meeting. The meetings are OK, but trying to pass the food and drinks through the telephone's mouthpieces tended to clog the conversation.

PVS has absentee members in multiple states. Jim Arnold has now lived in Knee Hampshire for over a decade. He also, along with the Knee and several others, had cataract surgery last December. Jim suggests that perhaps we should change our club's name to "Poor Vision Skiers." Naaa. Jim and his sister went to Madrid, Spain for a week's vacation at the end of July. This was followed by four weeks in Malaga taking advanced Spanish lessons. C, C, C. Or is that Si, Si, Si? Jim's stationery, by the way, has moose all over it or is that mooses? Or mice?

Almost ubiquitous PVS: Earlier this year, while on a vacation trip to Sienna, Italy, Jack Chapman and Ellie Thayer met with Bob and Karen Knopes. I say almost ubiquitous because the meeting was planned BRSC News. Wayne Homens is the new President of the Blue Ridge Ski Council. Wayne was a previous President and stepped in when another volunteer couldn't be found.

The Knee can't find a segue for this item. Barbara Leonhardt is organizing PVS' second segway trip. This one is on the Gettysburg battlefield. This inquiring reporter had to find out, how much does a segway weigh? It weighs 105 lbs. and costs $5151.

We all wish Don Dillion a very speedy recovery. He has just completed his seventh, and hopefully final, back surgery. Ouch.

In July, The Knee reported that Liberty Mountain (sic) Ski Patroller Jim Wingrove was our latest skier. He skied there on June 11, with a great day of skiing on powder. Almost immediately thereafter, the Knee got a truly mean e-mail from Bob McNeill. Bob's e-mail accused yellow journalism, and printing lies (he used the term untruths). Even worse, Bob accused me of having scraggly hair. The Knee, can take a lot, but not scraggly hair. So I researched. The reason for this vituperation is that Bob McNeill skied at Liberty Mountain (sic) on June 10. And he wanted to be the latest skier. There, there Bob, perhaps you'll do better next year... Or you can be the first to ski this fall.

According to Marvin Hass, the Chinese are researching ski resorts. As the skiing market explodes in China, entrepreneurs are coming to Europe to observe best practice in the ski business. Next a Winter Olympics in China?

EXPLORE THE SOUTH PACIFIC May 28- June 12, 2009, 16 Days, 14 Nights

It's been called the most alluring and beautiful destination on earth... Tahiti and French Polynesia, the legendary islands of the South Pacific. Now the new home of Star Flyer - and the consummate mega-yacht sailing experience. Star Flyer voyages to the legendary Society Islands and the remote Tuomotus, the home of Polynesian cultural traditions. Star Flyer will offer intensely rewarding personal explorations of islands bearing magical names like Moorea, Bora Bora, Huahine and Rangiroa. Even more noteworthy, as she glides through these pristine archipelagos of unsurpassing loveliness, she will leave no sign of her passage. Star Flyer is as fleet as the wind, a true clipper ship, yet a modern cruise ships in every way, created for comfort-loving passengers who also love the traditions and romance of the legendary era of sailing ships. Star Flyer is 360 feet long and carries just 170 guests in pampered comfort. Life aboard is blissfully relaxed, much like traveling on a private yacht. You'll never feel confined, as our ship offers pleasingly spacious cabins and expansive teak decks with ample space for relaxing and play. See islands up close, sail inside lagoons. Sail in full harmony with the pristine environment and anchor overnight inside atolls. An authentic sailing experience, you can help or relax, international cuisine, superb service. Full range of water sports Check out Star Flyer at www.starclippers.com
